The Intersect Group Meets IT Outsourcing Needs for Vyvo Broadband Access Equipment Provider Enhances Operational Efficiency

ATLANTA – Sept. 30, 2008 – The Intersect Group, the premier provider of IT and finance & accounting consulting and project management services, today announced a successful IT outsourcing engagement with Vyvo, a supplier of broadband access equipment for cable system operators. The decision to outsource its IT services to The Intersect Group was made by Vyvo in conjunction with a recent consolidation and move of its headquarters to the U.S., and is expected to provide the now Atlanta-based company significant operational benefits.

“The Intersect Group provides tailored services that meet the specific needs of our situation,” said Rob Mills, Vyvo’s CFO. “Its business model provides for the flexibility to meet our needs even as our needs continue to evolve.” By focusing on its core competencies and outsourcing the management of its IT operations, Mills anticipates better company performance and more rapid market penetration.

Prior to this IT outsourcing engagement, Vyvo had engaged the multi-faceted The Intersect Group in another capacity: Sarbanes-Oxley compliance. Vyvo, formerly based in Israel, tapped Intersect consulting to test its internal controls per SOX compliance standards.

“We are pleased to continue our productive relationship with Vyvo,” said Wade Hughes, consulting practice partner at The Intersect Group. “Unlike companies offering either IT services or F&A services, The Intersect Group allows clients to benefit from our multi-disciplinary perspective that considers overall organization impact—and accelerates growth.”

The Intersect Group began its most recent engagement with Vyvo with an analysis of technology needs and business issues. Experienced technical resources were assigned and a cost-effective delivery model implemented. Resources include outsourced day-to-day support and a dedicated CIO serving in a strategic role. As a result, systems have been streamlined, long-standing issues resolved and services added to better serve Vyvo’s essential business locally and internationally.

About Vyvo Inc.

Vyvo Inc. (NASDAQ: VVYO) delivers to cable system operators a powerful, economic platform with fiber-like performance that extends their dominant bandwidth position over the competition and drives new revenues. Vyvo's UltraBand™ spectrum overlay technology expands typical HFC (hybrid-fiber coax) network capacity in the "last mile," cost-effectively offering the only solution that quadruples upstream and doubles downstream bandwidth to help operators deliver new, advanced residential and business services at a fraction of the cost of fiber deployments. Vyvo is based in Norcross, Ga. More information is available at <http://www.vyvo.com>.
